

Helping you to manage your wellbeing if you provide care for someone

If you provide help for someone, such as family, friends or neighbours, who couldn't cope without you it is important to look after your own health and wellbeing.

This leaflet offers advice and information about the services available to support you.

- Provides signposting to other agencies to help support the carer's wellbeing and the person they care for.
- A community-focused service helps the person with a caring responsibility have access to local agencies who can help with shopping, collecting prescriptions and other practical help.
