ALCESTER, HENLEY & STUDLEY JSNA STAKEHOLDER EVENT THE BALIFF'S HALL, ALCESTER WAR MEMORIAL TOWN HALL, ALCESTER 14th SEPTEMBER 2018

PART 1

Small group discussions regarding the key health and wellbeing presentation

Demographics

Stakeholders recognised that the area has a generally older population and this is only going to get older which will present a range of challenges.

There was also recognition that the average house prices are higher than the county average, although it needs to be clear there are also smaller houses/cheaper areas within the JSNA. Part of the JSNA includes the 'Golden Triangle' area of housing where prices are notoriously high. The high cost of housing to buy and rent in towns equates to lower income available.

Some stakeholders were surprised that the area is 95% White British, perceiving the area as more diverse than this.

It was noted that some pockets of the JSNA area will have higher rates of people are receiving home care.

General Health

Stakeholders raised queries regarding the prevalence of respiratory conditions. The prevalence of respiratory conditions was analysed as part of this assessment, results are not included in the JSNA report as prevalence was not found to be high for this area.

Stakeholders shared concerns regarding the capacity of health and care services locally, highlighting that GP practices are always busy and querying whether there is a need for more care homes or care home staff locally. Access to services and support was raised as a local challenges, particularly for young people and older people given the limited public transport options.

Are there any statistics and figures on epilepsy? There is poor support for the condition in the area and people have to cross the border into Worcestershire in order to access services and support.

Mental Health

Stakeholders recognised the need to reduce social isolation in the area as social isolation and the mental health of older people are inextricably linked. There was a suggestion that improving the promotion of existing social groups available locally may help to reduce isolation. Stakeholders raised that mental health in older people often goes unknown (unless it leads to reported injury/self-harm) and the figures will only show those with identified mental health problems. Mental health is often linked to health, housing, debts etc.

There was a recognition of the need to better understand the prevalence and support available for parents experiencing mental health difficulties, such as post-natal depression, and to better understand the prevalence of mental health difficulties in local schools.

A query was raised regarding injury admissions for young people and whether these statistics include self-harm figures. Self-harm injuries are included in the injuries figures. Self-harm is also flagged as being high among children and young people in the area, self-harm admissions include those caused by intentional physical injury, poisoning.

There are 2 grammar schools in the area which means young people have better opportunities and it's not surprising the area is performing well in terms of education. However, due to high aspiration and pressure to meet targets and get good grades you will likely have higher rates of mental health problems and self-harm (particularly with stressed young/teenage girls). High achieving young women are the group most likely to self-harm. Stakeholders were keen to see greater promotion of the new RISE (mental health) service and developments of how it is being delivered locally and how it links with schools. Additionally mental health and wellbeing support for farmers was raised as a potential gap in current provision.

Overall, an agreement that the mental health of young people is a key issue.

Heart problems

District nurses confirmed the data reflects their caseloads which include a significant amount of circulatory disease. Nurses and other stakeholders recognised there are opportunities to improve the prevention of circulatory diseases and to reduce the impact of disease on those diagnosed through increasing opportunities to be physically active.

There are a lot of defibrillators within the town of Bidford (there are 5) and these have been used on multiple occasions and have saved lives.

Cancer

Stakeholders recognised that a high level of screening available is good. Particularly given the higher likelihood of cancer with an older population. Whilst waiting times for cancer referrals need improving local stakeholders considered referral rates to be better than 10 years ago, with GPs being much better at spotting the signs. Stakeholders were interested to understand figures for male-related cancers (prostate and testicular).

Community transport representatives reported they have seen a sudden rise in the number of people needing transport to hospital in order to attend cancer-related appointments because the cost of public transport is high.

Poverty

Stakeholders highlighted the inequalities in the local area, reflected in part by data on local food banks. There was a request to include data the Alcester food bank in future assessments.

It is a polarised area – a rich population who eat out and do online shopping at Waitrose and those on benefits who need food banks. There are also food banks in Alcester and Evesham but people often don't use their nearest/local food bank as they don't want to be seen by people they know.

Social care

Adult social care — stakeholders suggested the need for adult social care may be under-reported as older people can be proud and don't access services. The cost of private social care is expensive and the need to complete many long forms can be a barrier to accessing help. Children's social care — stakeholders also suggested that rates of child carers are likely to be under-reported due to the stigma attached to caring. There needs to be support for young people who are caring for adults.

Air Quality

The data in the report highlights an area of poor air quality in Studley, however stakeholders also raised concerns regarding air quality in Henley and Bidford too, noting that people cut through Bidford in order to avoid driving through busy Stratford.

Studley is a dormitory town and most of the towns/villages are inhabited by commuters which adds to cars on the roads. The main road in Studley sees heavy trucks going to Redditch every day and is always congested. A bypass was proposed but rejected several years ago, however some stakeholders suggested it is needed due to the congestion on the high street contributing the poor air quality.

Other

Some stakeholder were surprised by the low crime rate, it was noted the figures only include reported/recorded crimes.

Stakeholders raised the challenge presented by new housing developments in and around small villages and the need to ensure new communities are integrated in to village life to avoid social isolation.

A lack of youth provision was raised as an issue for the area.

PART 2

What people value in terms of supporting Health & Wellbeing

Stakeholders noting a range of services and support available to support health and wellbeing, including: the Health Visiting service; the Perinatal Mental Health Team; the Parenting Project and the Family Nurse Partnership (for teenage parents) for parent and infants. Stakeholders also noted the support provided to Orbit housing tenants (including Employment Support, mental Health Support and Tenancy Coaching and the importance of children's centres, parent and toddler groups and support available through schools.

Those attending the event highlighted the positive impact that volunteering can have on the volunteers' health and wellbeing. Other factors deemed important included: the availability of community venues and meetings places; having friendly, welcoming communities; flexible working and family friendly policies in workplaces. In terms of employment the need to ensure opportunities are available for people with disabilities was raised, including volunteering opportunities for people with learning difficulties.

Community transport and 'UBUS' provision is valued locally as are local community sports facilities and exercise groups.

Information and feedback gathered at JSNA 'drop-in sessions'

Four community drop-in events took place. This section summaries locality-specific feedback received through community and stakeholder engagement activities.
