Briefly, why do you believe this route is a public right of way?

When Nelson's Cement Works was operational workmen from Stribben walked to work on SM 183, men from Broadwell on R 230 and a ladder bridge over the canal that was demolished in the 1950's. This route was also used by the public to go from Stribben to Broadwell and to swim in the canal without hindrance. It has been used since the works closed, latterly as access to the conservation site on the line of the disused railway.
